

FRENCH WILL FIGHT TO END

Jusserand Makes Fiery Speech After Presenting Vases to Senate.

Ambassador Jusserand, speaking with the voice of France before the Senate of the United States yesterday, assured the American people that the French will use force to the utmost to gain a conclusive decision over the enemy, who can understand nothing but force.

The speech was the most gratifying and encouraging that has been delivered by a foreign official in the Senate chamber since the beginning of the war.

Ambassador Jusserand, on behalf of the government, presented two magnificent Sevres vases, the product of the government factory, to the Senate. Long-established rules and precedents were swept aside to permit the Ambassador to make the presentation direct to the members of the Senate in the Senate chamber, and for the first time the flag of another nation—the tri-color of France—was displayed with that of the United States.

"We are now at one of the grandest periods of the world," said Ambassador Jusserand. "We see signs never to be seen again: only scenes of horror, but scenes of splendor. To those latter scenes American contribution is one of which you and your descendants may well be proud forever."

Quoting from Pascal he said that "Justice without Force is powerless. Force without Justice is tyrannical." Of the two ways of expressing one's self, that of Joffre, Foch, Haig, Pershing, and of their companions in arms in Italy, Palestine, the Balkans and Siberia, is the only one our enemy understands. He is never tired of saying to himself, and since we want to be understood, we mean to use no other.

"We have to deal with a strange enemy; I shall not say a monstrous enemy, though he is, such he is. He can deceive; he cannot understand. That unique enemy can devise liquid fire, poisonous gases, poisonous propaganda, noxious germs to be sent by his diplomatic envoys to neutral countries, as happened in Norway and Rumania (after which he wonders why he has no friends), an accurate shelling of Rheims, the burning of Louvain, the sinking of the Lusitania and hospital ships, perfectly appointed warships to carry off loot, the efficient slavery of civilians."

"They forgot in their calculations one thing: that the French will win. They could not understand that sentiment is a force—the greatest of all in our days—that sentiment leads the world and has caused one of the most remarkable items in the North, Central and South America, in Asia and in Africa even, to come and say: 'To the end we are with you.'"

Sentiment is the force behind those particular guns which will win the day.

"What is now the time of day? 'Der Tag' nearly spent? Foch, Haig, Pershing and their peers will tell us when they think fit. All we need to know is that we are in, all of us, 'until the last gun is fired.' And why are we in? We are in, as I said, in order to give its proper value to a document about as sacred to us French as to you Americans, and which recalls to us common souvenirs. It is to make good for the world the Declaration of Independence."

Vice President Marshall accepted the vases and made a touching and telling reply to the speech of the French Ambassador.

URGES DECREASE OF STREET ACCIDENTS

Mine Bureau Seeks Adoption of Safety Device.

Alarmed at the increasing number of traffic accidents in the streets of the big American cities, the Bureau of Mines has sent to the police authorities of these cities the plans and specifications for an improved safety device.

The Bureau of Mines is seeking the safety of more than 1,000,000 miners, the great majority of whom work underground. In its work, however, the bureau employs a large staff of safety experts, one of whom is Otto H. Mohr, in charge of illuminating engineering investigations. Washington is to use this improved safety device and is having the first "safety beacon" built. In order to maintain the light at night, it is necessary to provide a conduit under the street from the curb to the center.

NOLAN WAGE BILL PASSED

House Approves Minimum Rate for United States Employees.

The Nolan minimum wage bill, sponsored by Representative John I. Nolan, of California, was passed by the House yesterday by the vote of 253 to 17, with five members voting "present." The bill now goes to the Senate.

Mr. Nolan led the fight for the bill and carried it through in the face of a seemingly adverse majority. He succeeded in having all amendments voted down except one by Mr. Madden, of Illinois, to which he agreed. This amendment exempts from the measure the employees in the classified postal service. Railway employees are also exempted.

The bill does not apply to any employees who have been in the government service less than two years, nor to employees in the Philippines, Porto Rico, Hawaii, Alaska or the Panama Canal Zone. Persons in the army and navy are also excluded, as are all postmasters.

All other employees of the government or of the District of Columbia will be entitled to receive the minimum of $3 a day, or if paid by the hour, 37 1/2 cents an hour, or $90 a month, or $1,080 a year.

The fourteen members who voted against the bill were Black of Texas, Byrnes of South Carolina, Candler of Mississippi, Collier of Mississippi, Gordon of Ohio, Holm of Kentucky, Houston of Tennessee, Kinchloe of Kentucky, Oliver of Alabama, Quinn of Mississippi, Rayburn of Texas, Sisson of Mississippi, Young of Texas, and Saunders of Virginia. Representative Borland of Missouri voted for the Nolan bill.

The House debated the measure all afternoon, and numerous amendments were offered. Representative Mondell of Wyoming wanted to make the provisions apply to the new workers in the service as well as to those who have been employed for two years, as provided.

Representative Black of Texas offered an amendment to restrict the application of the $3 minimum to employees who work eight hours per day, but this was quickly voted down.

The National Federation of Federal Employees, which has been pushing hard for the passage of the Nolan bill, now expects to urge immediate action on this measure in the Senate, according to Luther C. Steward, national president of the organization.

SHORT LINES BALK ON M'ADOO'S OFFER

Director General Must Listen to Railroaders.

The final draft of the Short Line contract, as prepared by the Railroad Administration, was submitted and has been rejected by the American Short Line Railroad Association committee, as it does not embody any of the vital points sought for by the committee during the negotiations. The absence of these points makes the contract as submitted by the Administration impossible and unlivable so far as the short lines are concerned and, in the opinion of the short lines, does not conform to the principles set out by the President in his veto message to Congress of July 11, 1918.

No further negotiations will be had with the Railroad Administration unless the Director General of Railroads will listen to the claims of the short lines personally and grant the vital points necessary to their very existence.

Some of the contentions are that solicitation of business and respecting of routing orders have been refused and that the present divisions and arbitrations were to be taken up by the present divisions of rates standing. No limit is placed upon the profit to be charged the short line by the trunk line for repairs to cars or locomotives.
